Circuit clerk's office participating in debt recovery program clerk's office has implemented a new program which is helping to collect overdue fines and court

The program also is generating revenue for the county.

The county is participating in the Local Debt Recovery Program, which offers local governments an opportunity to utilize the resources of the Illinois Office of the Comptroller to collect unpaid debt.

The comptroller's office explains that through the program, unpaid debt can be collected for such matters as parking and red light tickets; utility bills, such as water and sewer costs; traffic fines, ordinance violations and court fees; and tuition and student fees.

Union County Circuit Clerk Tiffany Busby said that the process leading to the implementation of the new program began in mid-December of 2018 and was completed by Feb. 7.

The new program went active in the circuit clerk's office on Feb. 15, when the first fees were collected.

Busby said, with pride, that the comptroller's office shared that her office's implementation of the program was done faster than had been seen by any other entity in Illinois.

At this time, the circuit clerk's office is the only government entity in Union County which is participating in the program.

Training for the program involved online and handson sessions. Busby and

Arrest made for burglary

The Anna Police Department reported that it made an arrest on Friday, March 1, in connection with a burglary in the Union County community.

The burglary occurred during the early morning hours of Sunday, Dec. 23, at an Anna business.

The suspect, identified as Keith A. Roach, 41, of Anna, was taken into custody by the Anna Police Department and transported to the Union County Sheriff's Office in Jonesboro.

The police department reported that probable cause was found to take the suspect into custody following a review of recorded video surveillance material and cellular telephone data, which led to the obtaining of a search warrant.

The Union County circuit circuit clerk's office deputy clerk Emily Hartsock participated in the training.

> Funding generated by the circuit clerk's office from the time of the start-up on Feb. 15 through Feb. 28 totalled $3,269.85, Busby said.

Busby said she was made aware of the program in the state comptroller's office through Credit Collection Partners in Taylorville. The county began working with the firm in June of 2018.

Credit Collection Partners is helping the county to collect more than $603,000 in overdue fines, court costs and fees. The overdue funds involve 1,000 court cases dating back to 2012.

The comptroller's office explains that through the Local Debt Recovery Program, LDRP, it withholds unpaid debt from checks issued by the state. This process is known as an offset "The comptroller's office also takes $15 to $20 fee from the debtor.

The comptroller's office said that offsets can come from:

•Income tax refunds, which includes returns from individuals and businesses. •A state employee's paycheck (only a portion is withheld from each check). •State vendor contracts.

•The lottery.

The process for collecting funds is outlined by the comptroller's office and begins with a local entity, such as the Union County circuit clerk's office, signing up with the LDRP.

The circuit clerk's office submits outstanding debt claims to the Illinois Debt Recovery Offset Portal, IDROP.

Submitted debt must be less than seven years old from the date of final determination, greater than $9.99, in a correct format and in accordance with an established notice process.

IDROP matches claims again state records. Matched records are submitted for an offset. IDROP registers the offset, such as an income tax return and withholds the money.

The debtor has 60 days to file a protest regarding the action. If the debtor files a protest, the circuit clerk's office responds. A hearing officer reviews evidence in the matter and then makes a ruling.

If no protest is filed, or if a protest is denied, then the money is transferred to the circuit clerk's office.

Anna Council hears project updates look to the future – were highlighted at last week's regular meeting of the Anna City Council.

The meeting was Tuesday evening, March 5, at Anna City Hall.

City administrator Steve Guined presented a detailed report which included:

•An update on a 2018-2019 housing grant update.

•A 2019-2020 abandoned property program grant update.

•A 2019-2020 downtown improvement project.

•2019-2020 economic development.

•2019-2020 street improvements.

•Natural gas rate comparisons.

•2019-2021 water improvement projects.

2018-2019 Housing Grant Update

Over the past several years, the City of Anna has applied for, and received, nearly $1.2 million in funds for owner occupied housing improvement grants.

The funds are used in a targeted area approach to improve the overall appearance and home values in the targeted areas.

The most recent targeted area includes Grand, East and Grove avenues.

Applicants must qualify and be approved by an outside agency to participate in the program.

The most recent program includes seven homes. Three of the homes have been bid out and construction is set to begin. The balance should follow soon. The program should be completed this year.

2019-2020 Abandoned Property Program Grant Update

The City of Anna has applied for a $75,000 grant to assist in the demolition of abandoned homes within the city limits.

The grant will assist the city in the expense of the costs associated with the abatement and demolition of abandoned properties.

The city has spent nearly $250,000 over the last several years to demolish abandoned properties.

Once demolition work has been completed, the properties have been sold to new owners, donated to Habitat for Humanity or are in the process of being sold. The city has identified several properties through its code enforcement program which are seen as excellent candidates for the program. The code enforcement program falls under the responsibility of the police and fire departments.

The city administrator recommended that the city council continue to focus on

> He noted that the quality and availability of adequate housing is an important component to the long-term development of the City of Anna.

2019-2020 Downtown Improvement Project

The multi-year downtown improvement project involves sidewalk and street beautification.

Phase I of the project involved work on West Davie Street. The project consisted of new sidewalks, construction of a new street, new street lighting, parking lot improvements and green spaces.

Phase II involved work on Main Street, from Davie Street to Jefferson Street. The project included new sidewalks, handrails and green spaces.

Phase III involved work on East Davie and Lafayette streets. The project also included new handrails, street lighting, sidewalk improvements and green spaces. It also included new road resurfacing.

Phase IV work is scheduled for this summer and fall. The project is slated to include sidewalk replacement and repairs along North and South Main streets. This is the smallest of the projects.

The cost of Phase IV is expected to be $75,000. The project will be funded by a $50,000 grant and $25,000 in special project funds.

Once Phase IV is completed, the city will have spent nearly $1.75 million on the downtown projects.

This was completed with a combination of grant funds, state funds and city special project funds. No money was borrowed and no property tax increases were incurred.

2019-20 Economic Development

The report focused on the development of qualified Opportunity Zones, a recently enacted federal program which is designed to serve as a catalyst for economic development in low-income communities by investing in Qualified Opportunity Funds.

The report also focused on the history of the Anna Business Park. The business park is located in east Anna, along Illinois Route 146/East Vienna Street.

The city acquired the property that is currently being developed as the Anna Business Park in two separate purchases.

Phase One involved the front 10 acres of the park, which were acquired and developed with a combination of city and grant funds. All available property in Phase One has been sold.

Phase Two involved the back 20 acres, which have had minimal development.

The city has applied for $50,000 grant. The city has been notified that it has been selected to receive the grant. Work on a service road extension to serve the back 20 acres is slated to begin in 2019-2020.

2019-2020 Street Improvements

Motor Fuel Tax Funded Projects: The city has earmarked $168,000 in the 2019-2020 operating budget for various street paving projects.

This will be in conjunction with $150,000 which was spent last summer to pave several streets and parking lots.

Joint Illinois Department of Transportation/ City Projects: The city has approved a joint agreement with the Illinois Department of Transportation to repave Main Street from the railroad tracks to the square in Jonesboro.

The total cost of the project will be $862,500. The state will contribute $849,500. The city will contribute $13,000. The work is slated for this sum-

City-Wide Asphalt Patching Program: The city has proposed a budget of $100,000 for miscellaneous asphalt patching to be done throughout the city. This will be funded through the city's special projects budget.

Gas Rate Comparison

The city administrator presented a review of natural gas rates for years dating back to 2008-2019.

The review showed that base rates have consistently dropped over the years, which is reflected in what customers pay.

"This is something that we're really proud of," the city administrator noted.

2019-2012 Water Improvements Projects

The city has been working on a multi-phase water improvement project for several years.

The initial phase was the addition of a 500,000 gallon ground storage tank. This storage, along with the city's elevated 200,000 gallon water tower, provided the necessary storage to meet daily storage requirements established by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, IEPA.

In addition, the city made other water system improvements, including some key water pump replacements. This project was funded by a 75 percent loan forgiveness grant, with the remaining 25 percent paid by a low interest loan from the IEPA.

The next project involves work which is estimated to cost $917,000. The project involves water main improvements, rehabilitation and painting of the 200,000 gallon water tank and replacement of valves and hydrants. This project will be funded by a 75 percent loan forgiveness grant, with the remaining 25 percent again paid by a low interest loan from the IEPA. The work is scheduled for completion in 2021.

Other Business

In other business at last week's meeting:

Anna resident Michael Bigler was present to share his thoughts about the city's plans regarding the hiring of administrative personnel: a new city administrator and assistant city administrator.

Bigler is a former member of the city council. He is a candidate for election to the council in the April election.

One aspect of Bigler's concern focused on the length of the process involved in the hiring of a new city administrator.

He also voiced concerns about the hiring of new administrative personnel at a time when the city council could face significant turnout in light of the April election.

Long-time city administrator Steve Guined has announced his plans to permanently retire from the post. He continues to work for the city on a contractual Mayor Steve Hartline said that the city is carefully going through the hiring process. The mayor noted that it is important to find qualified employees in light of the recent retirements of employees who filled six key administrative posts.

Bigler said that he hopes whatever action is taken will not hamstring the new city council.

The city council voiced support for upcoming Child Abuse Prevention Month activities which are being planned in April in the community.

The city council approved plans for a National Day of Prayer service which is planned on May 2 at the Anna City Park.

A resolution for the city's Fiscal Year 2019-2020 budget was approved. The new fiscal year begins on May 1.

School sales tax issue on April ballot

By Benjamin Marxer

At this year's April 2 election, Union County voters will get the opportunity to decide on a ballot resolution to seek a 1 percent sales tax increase in Union County to be used exclusively for school facility purposes.

The increase would raise the Union County base sales tax from 7.5 percent to 8.5 percent.

The proposal was able to make it on to the 2019 ballot with the approval of at least 50 percent of the county school boards.

Funds from the initiative would be available to all seven of Union County's public school districts.

Money raised from the tax could be used exclusively for the building or repair

Weather High 67, low 12; 2.43 inches of rain

Temperatures ranged from a high of 67 degrees to a low of 12 during the period of March 5-11 in Union County.

Weather for the period also was highlighted by 2.43 inches of rain which fell on Saturday, March 9. Several periods of heavy downpours were recorded in Union County on Sat-

Funds can also be used to refund bonds or abate property taxes levied to pay bonds issued for capital purposes.

"The quality of schools in a community are a major consideration when parents are deciding where to move their families to," said Anna-Jonesboro Community High School District No. 81 superintendent Rob Wright.

"I also believe our students are just as deserving as our neighbors are in regards to having the best educational opportunities and experiences available to them."

School expenses like operating costs or facility salaries cannot be funded by this program.

Several items would be excluded from the proposed sales tax increase, including cars, boats, RVs, mobile homes, over-the-counter medicine and vitamins, unprepared food and farm equipment. Services will also not be included, and items that are not currently taxed will remain untaxed.

The ordinance will pass with a simple majority of votes from the electorate. With approval by the voters, the tax will be levied. If passed, districts will receive funds monthly beginning roughly four months after going into effect.

"It is estimated that close to one million dollars would be generated through the tax that would be distributed among the seven Union County school districts

"This would enable the school districts to proceed with repairs or projects that have been put on hold due to a lack of resources."

Proponents of the bill suggest that the passing of the ordinance can decrease property taxes by using sales tax funds to pay for facility projects that would have been paid for with property taxes.

A district can also choose to abate or decrease existing property taxes by using funds to pay off outstanding building bonds.

"Currently, property owners bear most of the burden when it comes to local revenues for schools," Wright said.

"This would redistribute the burden across a wider range of people, including people from other counties that come here to shop."

Several other counties in the area have passed similar county school facilities tax initiatives, including Jackson and Williamson counties.

"I can see how the 1 percent tax has transformed school facilities in neighboring counties when I visit for educational or extracurricular events", Wright said.

Town Hall Meeting Planned

For voters who want to learn more about the proposal, a town hall meeting is scheduled for March 19 at 6 p.m. in the Anna-Jonesboro High School auditorium.

Superintendents from the school districts of Union County are scheduled to be on hand at the meeting to answer questions and give more detailed explanations based upon the enrollments of the plan and its effects if passed.

"As someone who lives in this community, graduated from this school, and currently has grandchildren attending local schools, I believe that there is no better investment than in our kids and that those investments will pay great dividends in the future," Wright said.

"I challenge every voter to become informed on this issue and how it will impact them, and then decide for themselves whether it is a worthy endeavor or not."

"Just Like Me: Vietnam War Stories from All Sides," a journey spanning decades and going around the world, is coming to Southern Illinois University Carbondale.

County officials hear about proposed county school sales tax measure

A proposed school sales tax vote was on the agenda at last week's regular meeting of the Union County Board of Commissioners.

The meeting was Friday morning, March 8, at the Union County Courthouse in Jonesboro.

A proposal for the levying of a 1 percent sales tax in Union County will be on the April 2 election ballot.

Should the proposal be approved, revenue generated by the tax would be used exclusively for school facility purposes in Union County.

Superintendents from four of the county's seven public school districts attended Friday morning's county board meeting.

School administrators at the meeting included Shelly Clover-Hill of Shawnee School District No. 84, Robbie Wright of Anna-Jonesboro Community High School District No. 81, Chuck Goforth of Anna School District No. 37 and Brent Boren of Lick Creek School District No. 16.

The sales tax levy would generate an estimated $85,000 a month for local school districts. Funds would be allocated to the districts based on enrollment numbers.

(Details about the proposed sales tax measure can be found in an accompanying story in this week's paper.)

In other business at Fridday's meeting, regional superintendent of schools Cheryl Graff shared a quarterly update with county officials.

Graff serves as regional superintendent of schools for Union, Alexander, Jackson, Perry and Pulaski counties.

Graff said safety visits had been completed at all of the school buildings in the five counties.

The commissioners heard from a community member who asked that the board reconsider a plan to remove a recyling bin from county grounds. The bin is being removed due to costs. After hearing the request, county board chairman Max Miller said the matter would be taken under consideration.

Shawnee coach sees pitching as key this spring for baseball team's success

Shawnee High School baseball coach T.C. Schaefer is looking to pitching for success this spring.

"If our pitching holds up, I think we'll compete," Schaefer said. "Our infield is pretty good and we should have a pretty good defense this year."

Handling the main pitching duties will be juniors Koby McLain and Ryan Schaefer.

Sophomores Devon Clendenin, Kaden Baltzell and Justin Kaufman could also add depth to the pitching and freshmen, who could see pitching action as well, are Braden Freeman and Christian Otte.

When not pitching, Mc-Lane will be at third base and Schaefer at either third base or shortstop.

Freshmen Freeman could be at second base when not pitching and Otte either in the outfield or second base.

Other seniors are catcher Nick Rose and outfielder Austin Warren. Other juniors are right fielder Scott Schmebeman and outfielder Jeremiah Hale.

Three other freshmen who could contribute are outfielders Marshall Mc-Lane and Braden Holtman and utility player Lane

The coach said he is encouraged by the turnout for this year's team.

"We've got sixteen kids and that's the most we've ever had," he said. "They're good kids and they are coming out and working hard."

SIU men's basketball coach to step down ly after Southern Illinois University lost its men's basketball game to Northern Iowa in the quarterfinals of the Missouri Valley Conference Tournament on Friday, 16-year league veteran coach Barry Hinson announced during a press conference that he would "step away" as head coach of SIU's program.

Hinson's postgame statement was posted online at siusalukis.com:

"I've been coaching 38 years and I've been blessed to be a part of this conference for 16 years, and there's nobody that loves the Valley more than I do.

"Each and every venue that I've ever coached in has just been outstanding.

"I got to serve nine years in Springfield, Missouri. It started off as Southwest Missouri and I was the last coach at Southwest Missouri and the first coach at Missouri State.

"I got a second chance to come back to the Valley when Mario Moccia hired me to be the basketball coach at Southern Illinois: just a great program, tradition-rich program.

"Last March, the Chancellor (the late Carlo Montegmagno): we made a pact that if we didn't go to the NIT or the NCAA, then it would be time for me to step away.

"I've had the most enjoyable year, believe it or not, being around these young men and being around my current athletic director Jerry Kill.

"I couldn't be more excited right now for Saluki Athletics than what I am, because I know where it's headed, I know who's running the ship now, and I know we've had a lot of issues on campus and in Carbondale, but those issues are getting ready to

"If you quote me on one thing, I'd like you to quote me on this: I am so sorry that we couldn't get back to the Tournament. It's haunted me my entire life. "But I'm a man of faith. My dad taught me a long time ago, 'I know not what my future holds, but I know Who holds my future.'

"I've made great friends, and these coaches in this league that I've made over these 16 years will be lifelong friends.

work under.

"I've been so blessed. I've been so blessed. I've had tragedy in my life, and every time I've had it, somebody in the conference or the coaching community or the fans have rallied behind my family.

"But I want to thank you for giving me 16 wonderful years in this conference and I'll do anything I can to help it in the future. But it's time. It's time for me to step away. Thank you."

Hinson, 57, compiled a 116-111 record in seven seasons at SIU, including a 60-66 mark in MVC games.

His best finish came in 2018, when the Salukis placed second during the regular season with an 11-7 record and advanced to the semifinals of the conference tournament.

Southern did not make a postseason tournament appearance during his tenure.

Hinson mentored five all-conference players at Southern: Desmar Jackson, Anthony Beane Jr., Sean O'Brien, Armon Fletcher and Kavion Pippen.

He also coached the program's first Academic All-American since 2008: Marcus Bartley.

The last 15 seniors who exhausted their athletic eligibility during Hinson's tenure earned their degrees.

From 2000 to 2008, Hinson coached at Missouri State, compiling a 169-117 record. His teams made four NIT appearances but were among the bubble teams that did not make the NCAA Tournament in 2006 and 2007.

He stands fourth all-time in overall wins (285) in MVC history.

Saluki Sports Update

By Fred Huff

The Missouri Valley Conference postseason tournament never fails to produce good stories, but the 2019 meet may go down as one of the best...or worst, however you evaluate some of the happenings.

Topping the list for Saluki fans was Saluki coach Barry Hinson's resignation announcement following SIU's disappointing firstround loss to sixth-ranked Northern Iowa, 61-58.

Perhaps the result wasn't a stunner, but, yes, it was a disappointment. Particularly the way the game played out.

Taking the Salukis' 17-15 season into consideration, it wasn't a total shock; however, fans were expecting

And Hinson's announcement immediately following the game that he was throwing in the towel was like putting a second layer of icing on a one-layer cake.

Granted, it was the only positive happening for some disappointed Saluki basketball fans.

They had seen enough during the last few years and simply are ready for a change.

It definitely brought back a lot of memories of past basketball coaching moves and none are pleasant.

Perhaps it was the proper move for Saluki basketball. Only time will tell.

We personally will get over the loss to a so-so Northern Iowa team and probably Hinson's depar-

However, we'll never change our opinion of Hinson as a human being. He's a good man.

It's entirely possible that more meaningful accomplishments in another field than coaching is ahead for the guy. We sincerely hope

So now, SIU's rookie athletics director Jerry Kill has an important assignment ahead of him. Hiring a men's basketball coach.

And even though he's already hired a new staff member or two, none have been of the importance or difficulty as replacing

We have to assume that Kill will seek assistance and opinions of others who have been around the sport, basketball, a longer period of time. One thing we definitely do hope for.

Kill is the AD. Let the final decision be his and not a committee of 12 to 14 others who have inflated egos of their knowledge of the coaching game.

We can't help but be reminded of more than 35 years ago when athletics director Gale Sayers' effort to replace Joe Gottfried was rejected by others above him and was repeated just a few years later when then AD Lew Hartzog was attempting to hire a new coach to take over for Allen Van Winkle.

The Gazette-Democrat

And, it's a little interesting that both Sayers and Hartzog, just like Kill, had gained exceptional prominence in other sports.

Sayers, of course, is one of pro football's greatest stars and Hartzog enjoyed an exceptional career as track and field coach while at Northeast Louisiana and

Also interesting is that both Sayers and Hartzog were adamant about hiring one-time prominent West Frankfort residents and coaches.

Sayers, had he been allowed to, would have hired Bobby Brown and Hartzog had already told George Iubelt that he would be taking over as SIU's next basketball coach.

Brown had not, repeat not, been one of the three choices by a group of advisors and Sayers was told he could not hire the former West Frankfort prep ace unless he was one of the "advisors" choices. True. I was in Gale's office when he received the call.

The Hartzog/Iubelt incident was far more complicated. Hartzog even lost his job in the mess and was replaced by SIU administrator Dean Stuck, who absolutely was a competent replacement and given total authority by SIU president Al Somit.

That one worked as Stuck knew all about a high school coach named Rich Herrin, hired him to take over the basketball program and the rest is history.

After a brief rebuilding period, Herrin guided the Salukis to seven straight years of postseason tournaments: four (1989-1992) in the NIT and three (1993-1995) in the NCAA.

Yes, there is a lot of history involved in SIU's basketball program and we're about to have front-row seats to another chapter. We're hoping for a happy

"The Preaching Pen" Spring Reminds Us . . I like cold weather. I'm sure I'm in the minority here, but my favorite season is Winter. Why? There's no one reason. I have always liked snow, although we haven't had any significant snow events in the last few years. I like that it's a time for the grain farmer to find a few days of rest. I like the holidays that come during winter - Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's. However, I like the changing of the seasons. I like to see Spring come. Spring reminds us of a few things:

Spring reminds us that God always keeps His promises. God said in Genesis 8:22, "While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease." The change of seasons is proof of God's faithfulness to His word. If you're one of those who would exclaim, "It's hot!" during July or August, just wait a few months and you'll be complaining, "It's cold!" God has never failed to keep a promise. Consider that in light of the resurrection, eternal life, and Heaven. He will keep every promise (II Peter 3:9)!

Spring reminds us that life is cyclical. When the New Year comes, I think of Ecclesiastes 3. In verses 1-2, & 11, the Bible says, "To everything there is a season, A time for every purpose under heaven: A time to be born, And a time to die; A time to plant, And a time to pluck what is planted...He has made everything beautiful in its time." There is a time for everything. Without the greening of the leaves in summer, there would be no colorful Fall. Without the cold of winter, there would be an overabundance of insect life in the Spring. "To everything, there is a season..."

Spring reminds us we must "die" in order to live. In the shadow of winter dormancy and death, life resumes. Trees bud and put on leaves, the grass greens - life begins again. There is a "rebirth" of Spiritually speaking, we must die to sin (Rom. 6:2). We must mortify the deeds of the body in order to live (Rom. 8:13). When we die to self and sin, then and only then are we able to live unto Christ. Romans 6:4, "Therefore we were buried with Him through baptism into death, that just as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life."

Once we've recovered from "springing forward," I hope we enjoy this season which is part of God's creation. Visit us any time you can - Anna church of Christ, 104 Nile St. Have great day!

Ait moving. A gust of wind is like an unseen hand; invisible, it's the power that moves the sailboat through the waves. It's the power the sailboat relies on. Like the wind, God is invisible. He is a mighty force. He can be your power if you let him. He can move you in the right direction; He can give you the strength to do what you cannot do alone. Look for God in your house of worship this Meteorological winter season in Illinois featured large temperature variations

The month of March minimum temperature. marks the end of the meteorological winter season, which runs from December through February, the Illinois State Water Survey in Champaign reported.

The survey shared that despite what felt like "an eternity of below average temperatures," the season as a whole finished with temperatures relatively close to the long-term av-

On the opposite end, locations in Southern Illinois experienced temperature departures of 1 to 2 degrees above average during the 2018-2019 winter season.

Statewide temperatures averaged 29.9 degrees, or 0.8 of a degree above the long-term average.

Average temperature for the season ranged from the low 20s north to around 40 degrees toward extreme Southern Illinois.

Large variations occurred, with seasonal highs in the 70s and lows falling into the 30-plus-degrees below zero range.

The maximum temperature of 71 degrees occurred on Dec. 1 at Kaskaskia Navigation Lock in Randolph County.

The lowest temperature of 38 degrees below zero occurred on Jan. 31 at Mt. Carroll in Carroll County, setting a state record minimum temperature. After a comprehensive review, the State Climate Extremes Committee, SCEC, unanimously voted to validate the 38 degrees below zero reading as the new official state record

Brian Kerschner at the Illinois State Water Survey represented the Illinois State Climatologist Office as a member of the SCEC, along with delegates from the National Weather Service, the Midwest Regional Climate Center and the National Center for Environment Information.

The previous minimum temperature record for Illinois was 36 degrees below zero set in Congerville, located in Woodford County, on Jan. 5, 1999.

The coldest temperature prior to the Congerville record, 35 degrees below zero, was also set at Mt. Carroll in January 1930, and was later tied with Elizabeth in February 1996.

The last two days of January brought widespread cold weather to Illinois.

Many locations experienced some of the coldest weather that has been seen in decades, allowing numerous daily and station record lows to be broken.

This event produced statewide temperature departures of 20 to 30 degrees below average.

Precipitation was abundant throughout the state during the winter season.

This allowed the entire state to remain free of any abnormally dry or drought designations during the Legislation strengthens orders of protection

A Southern Illinois legislator earned unanimous approval from the Illinois House Judiciary Criminal Law Committee on two from contacting victims or of legislation last week.

"I want to thank my colleagues on the House Judiciary Criminal Law Committee for joining with me to support two important law enforcement efforts this week," State Rep. Patrick Windhorst, R-Metropolis, said in a news release.

"I was proud to carry legislation at the request of the Illinois Sheriffs' Association."

Windhorst represents the 118th District in Southern Illinois. Part of Union County is in the district. HB 2308 ensures that a defendant is prohibited separate, but related pieces witnesses from jail while awaiting trial. Windhorst says inmates awaiting trial sometimes use their phone privileges to harass victims while waiting for their court date. "This is a victims' rights piece of legislation," Windhorst said. "HB 2308 will keep incarcerated offenders from being able to contact their victims while awaiting trial." HB 2309 also passed the House Judiciary Criminal Law Committee with unanimous support. Windhorst says the legislation provides that when a petition for an emergency stalking no contact order, a civil no contact order, or an emergency order of protection is filed, the petition shall not be publicly available until the petition is served on the offending individual. "This is another action that we can take to help individuals in situations where domestic violence or domestic abuse takes place," Windhorst said.

"This measure will ensure that there is no, 'headsup' or tip-off to a potential respondent to the emergency order of protection. We want to make sure that if someone files an order of protection that they can count on law enforcement to keep them away from that person from day one."

HB 2308 and HB 2309 are Windhorst's first pieces of legislation to clear a House committee since he took over as 118th District state representative in Jan-

The bills were reported to the House floor to await action.

Protecting our borders

By John Reppert

As I am sure all your subscribers have noticed, our media have recently flooded us with stories about concerns in protecting our borders and the consequence of the inflow of unregistered immigrants.

At one level this strikes me as odd, since in truth we are a nation of immigrants, as our few Native Americans would be glad to remind us.

On the other hand it can be difficult to be comfortable with people who may not look like us, especially when they speak a language we do not understand.

However, as our history has clearly shown, this diversity of people is one of the treasures of America. I hope the people of our nation and our town will see this an opportunity and not a risk and seek to benefit from different perspectives.

Most of us do not have too go back to far in our family tree to find those born outside the United States who grew up speaking different languages. We should help in our schools, community organizations, and neighborhoods to be instruments of immigration.

This represents a special opportunity for young people to understand and appreciate other cultures. Because of a military background, I have had the privilege of living in other countries - Germany, Russia, Korea, Vietnam and shorter terms in others for a total of 17 years. I regret none of them, although I wished they had not been shooting at me in Vietnam.

As we read the articles of concern about refugees entering our country, I hope that many of you will seek ways to help them integrate into our culture, learn our language and to discover what they have to contribute.

Letter to the editor

Candidate addresses voters

To the voters of Anna,

I am pleased to announce my candidacy for re-election for Mayor.

It has been my pleasure to serve this community for the last four years as your Mayor.

During this time we have accomplished many goals.

They include new park improvements totaling nearly $500,000. We have completed Phase III of our Downtown Sidewalk Improvement Project. We have spent nearly one million dollars to date in these efforts.

In addition, we have made numerous improvements to our Water, Sewer and Natural Gas Systems.

These improvements are important for us to keep our infrastructure in the best condition possible.

The improvements were accomplished without raising your Property Taxes. With careful planning and grant funding we were able to pay for all of these important improvements.

During my tenure as Mayor, I am pleased to report the City of Anna has been in the black the last 20 years on

However, the work is not done. We are currently in a $400,000 Housing Rehabilitation Grant Program which will result in 10 homes being repaired. This program is at no cost to the homeowner.

In addition, the City is partnering with the Illinois Department of Transportation on a one million-dollar project to pave from the 4-way stop to the square in Jonesboro. This project is slated for this summer.

The City also has several abandoned properties scheduled for demolition.

This is an important imitative to continue to improve the appearance of our community. We have plans for additional Water System Improvement projects scheduled over the next two years.

I need your vote and support to continue the Future of Anna. Early voting begins February 21 at the courthouse and General Election is April 2 within the city precincts.

Please cast your vote for Steve Hartline for Anna Mayor. Sincerely, Steve Hartline, Anna Mayor

Flattering portrait? Nope. Especially if you happen to be a goose. Oh, well.

Dabbling with some more goose pictures...

Oh, no, you're saying to yourself, not more bird pictures. And they are gooses...again...

...even better, they are gooses cabooses.

A number of years ago, another traveler on The Journey Through Life suggested that we stop using so many photographs of white-tailed deer in the newspaper.

My thought was, and is, that the white-tailed deer is a rather important critter in our little corner of the world. Besides, they are beautiful, graceful creatures, which happen to be great for pictures.

Same goes for gooses. For the most part, they are graceful creatures, unless, of course, they happen to get caught in what might seem like a rather unflattering pose.

The gooses you see were on the loose one day last week at one of the places where your intrepid photographer happens to visit while on a daily walk.

The walk itself was much nicer than some of the excursions that I've been on in recent weeks, mainly because my face did not freeze and I could still feel all of my fingers, which made taking the pictures a little bit easier.

I am going to guess that I have seen gooses in such poses in the past. However, on this particular day, the bottoms up images just seemed to catch my attention.

Turns out that when a goose has its backside on the upside, so to speak, the image is "a classic pose," at least according to the naturestories.org website.

The website explains that the image comes to be when "a duck or other waterfowl is swimming along when it upends itself with its head underwater and its tail in the air."

Turns out this behavior is called "dabbling." And it's a feeding behavior. It allows for the critters "to reach aquatic vegetation in shallow water without being fully submerged."

To be honest with you, I have no idea what kinds of munchies the Canada gooses were enjoying while I was watching them dabble. The gooses did not offer to share any of their treats.

I did allow my simple little mind to wander a bit while pondering dabbling. Suppose other creatures engaged in the same sort of behavior.

Can you imagine what cows might look like if cows happened to dabble? Picture that in your mind: 10 or 20 cows in a field, back ends up, straight in the air, while

And what if people dabbled? You walk into your favorite restaurant and a room full of folks are munching on burgers and fries, back sides on the upside.

I shared my ideas about dabbling cows and people with The Other Half. As she often does, she rolled her eyes and shook her head. The message, I think, was pretty simple: maybe I should dabble in something other than dabbling.

This image might be a little bit nicer...

Severe weather preparedness encouraged demonstrated, severe weather can happen at any time of the year.

To help people better prepare for weather emergencies, the Illinois Emergency Management Agency, IEMA, and local emergency management agencies are promoting Severe Weather Preparedness Month throughout the month of March.

The National Weather Service and state and local emergency management officials strongly encourage people to have a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, NOAA, all hazards weather radio with battery backup.

The radios can be programmed to receive alerts for specified counties to keep people apprised of impending weather and post-event information for all types of hazards including natural (earthquakes), environmental (chemical spills) and public safety hazards (AMBER alerts).

When an alert is issued for the programmed area, the device will sound a warning alarm tone, followed by the essential information.

"Having a weather alert radio in your home can save your life," IEMA acting director Alicia Tate-Nadeau said.

"Much like a smoke detector or carbon monoxide detector, these devices can alert you while you are sleeping in order to give you the time you need to get your family

In this day and age of families constantly on the go, officials said it is also critical for people to have multiple ways to receive notifications and updated information about severe weather warnings.

FEMA offers a free mobile app that provides fast and reliable weather alerts from the National Weather Service, NWS. The app can be tailored to offer alerts for up to five different locations nationwide.

The mobile app can also help people locate open shelters and disaster resource centers near them in the event of an emergency. For more information about what to do before, during

As a record number of tornado outbreaks in December and after a storm, visit www.Ready.Illinois.gov. The site offers a Severe Weather Preparedness Guide, developed by IEMA and NWS, which provides tips on how to prepare for all weather emergencies.

Additional tips and information are available on the Ready Illinois Facebook page (www.facebook.com/ ReadyIllinois) and Twitter page (www.twitter.com/ ReadyIllinois).

A meeting was held Tuesday night in the A-J C.H.S. library to discuss the need for reform in the area school districts.
